

In this episode: Hallowe'en & White Guy Covers. Hour One provides some spooky disco and other eerie melodies, such as Soul

Dracula, Poe For Moderns,

and the rants of

Francis E. Dec, Esq.

Hour Two is filled with

White Folks Covering Songs They Probably Shouldn't Cover, many from Andrew Denton's Musical Challenge compilation, plus Public Enemy's "911 Is A Joke" done bluegrass,

"Straight Outta Compton" done sensitive singer/songwriter, and "I Touch Myself" done Innuït throat singing style. Plus a peak at an ECC experiment, "What Would You Do If I Sang Autotune". Hosted by TradeMark and

Fake

Filly. Listen below or

download

for later:

{audio}http://evolution-control.com/images/ecc/mp3/radio/Sound%20of%20Plaid%20-%20FCC%20Free%20Radio%20-%202009.10.27.mp3{/audio}

Could you tell... that Fake Frilly wasn't the Real Frilly?